

28 June 2006 Royal Society of Chemistry Schools Lecture, University of Sheffield

e-mail from

Will Davey, Head of Chemistry, King Edward VII School, Sheffield

Thanks again for the excellent lecture that you presented in Sheffield, on Wednesday. Our kids (and staff) from King Edward's all felt that it was one of the best lectures we had seen (and we have seen lots over the years!). I still can't get rid of some of the smells from my nostrils. Some of the students still have their tattoos! (teenage girls, too!!!).
